Lean Portfolio Management (LPM)

Course Overview

Lean Portfolio Management (LPM) Certification course offers a comprehensive understanding of lean principles and Agile methodologies applied to portfolio management. Professionals will learn how to align portfolios with business goals and strategies, ensuring yearly outcomes align with organizational objectives. This course covers essential topics such as limiting portfolio work-in-progress, adopting lightweight lean methods and involving teams in quarterly planning and outcome delivery.

Participants of the course will focus on three key areas: value stream capacity management, outcome-based budgeting, and strategic intent. Through this program, they will gain expertise in lean governance, portfolio Kanban, Agile funding, demand management, and outcome alignment. Additionally, participants will learn to create quarterly value stream budgets and establish Lean Budget Guardrails to measure portfolio performance effectively.

The course's highlight involves using tools such as the Portfolio Canvas to document a portfolio's present and future state. This enables participants to identify vital business initiatives required to achieve desired outcomes. Upon completing the course, individuals will have the necessary skills to manage portfolio flow with Portfolio Kanban, prioritize initiatives for maximum economic benefit, and make substantial contributions to lean portfolio management within their organizations.
